Three Held In Fatal Assault On Four-Year-Old Girl

Two men and a woman were held in $100,000 bail each in Huntington, N. Y., jail as a result of the death of four-year-old Jean Morvan, who succumbed to the effects of a criminal assault. Left to right: Mrs. Norma Gatto, who kept house for George Morvan, father of the slain child; Morvan, and Howard Magnusson, who detectives said confessed he criminally attacked the child. ### Village Items

Highland, March 5.—The Rosary Society of St. Augustine's Church will meet Monday evening when plans for Easter week will be made under the leadership of Mrs. Frank Gaffney, Jr.

At the meeting of the bridge club of Court Nilan last week with Mrs. Lauren Abrams at Clintondale the birthday of the grand regent of the court, Mrs. Vincent Gaffney, was featured. The house decorations were red, white and blue and the decorated birthday cake bore the same colors. Honors in the game went to Mrs. Herman Sandy and Mrs. Harvey Slater. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Chester Countant on April 1.

Mrs. Alfred Lane spent Thursday with her mother in Lloyd.

Helen and Thomas, the two children of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Campbell, went to Red Hook Thursday to spend the week-end with their grandparents. Their parents drive up Friday evening to remain until Sunday.

Mrs. Emily Decker and her son, Parker Decker, returned Wednesday from Syracuse where Mrs. Decker had visited former Highland residents. Mrs. Kate Wynkoop and her son, Frank Green, for a week. Mrs. Decker reported roads open and traveling good, although there was plenty of snow in the Syracuse section.

The amount sent in to the Red Cross county fund from the town of Lloyd by Miss Barbara Merritt, local chairman, totaled $596. This added to the $221 collected in the annual drive shows there was a hearty response to the appeal for aid to the stricken.

The March meeting of Court Nilan Catholic Daughters, will be held on Wednesday, March 10, when plans will be made to receive 24 new members. The committee on refreshments is: Mrs. Gustav Ossie, Mrs. Luella Ossie, Mrs. Caroline Ossie, Mrs. Elizabeth Griffo, Mrs. Anna Perkins, Mrs. Frances Pampinella.

J. Wells Weaver and his small daughter, Patricia, are both ill with scarlet fever.

Runaway Locomotive.

Buffalo, March 5 (AP)—Ray Linfield, 22, moved just enough to take him from behind the wheel of his truck but he escaped with lacerations and bruises when a locomotive crashed into him. Hearing "something" approaching on his left side, Linfield said, he slid quickly to the right side of the cab. The locomotive hit the left side of the truck, carrying the machine—and Linfield—50 feet.

Students in Accident

Somers Falls, March 5 (AP)—The three "R's" because fear of N.Y. State Academy today as rumors were added to "read", "rite" and "ritzy". A social dancing course was added to the curriculum at the village high school under the supervision of Miss Julia O'Brien and Miss Marie Weimer. The college or similar format, the girls and the rumors will be taught at classes in the gymnasium each Wednesday.

Varied Activities At Normal School

New Paltz, March 5.—During the week-end of March 12-14 the annual alumni week-end will be celebrated here. All details of the program are not yet completed, but present plans include a tea dance sponsored by the Outing Club in the gymnasium in the afternoon of Saturday, March 13, to be followed with two basketball games in the evening, the first between the girls' varsity and alumnae and the other between the men's varsity and the alumni. Dancing will follow the games. Esther Weiss will be general chairman of the Outing Club committee for the tea dance and Ruth Fisher for decorations. Mildred Radley, Invitations, Winifred Luchs entertainment, Esther Weiss music.

Prizes were awarded to the following persons who came in costume to the Country Life barn dance last week: Allene Wheeler for the prettiest costume, Florence Inderlied for the most humorous costume, Louisa Browne most original, and Roy Silver for the queerest costume (boys).

Madge Smith spent the week-end with Peg Kammerlin in Newburgh. Gladys Place, Edie Byrnes and Helen Downing were week-end house guests at the Arethusa Sorority.

Ralph DeWitt was a recent visitor at Long Island.

Sally Doramus spent the week-end holiday at Schaghticoke.

Gertrude Citronberg visited Bridgeport during the week-end.

Harriet Stewart spent the week-end in Johnstown.

Marge Hornig spent the week-end at Niagara Falls.

As a result of nominations made by the faculty and by a vote of the faculty members of Epilon Delta Chi the following juniors have been admitted to the honorary teaching society: Mildred LeFevre, Orville Todd and John Meagher.

Five students were formally initiated into Sigma Pi Sigma, honor scholastic society, Tuesday evening

They were: Shirley Mack Compton, Sarah Gulek, Emily Gregg, John Farmer and Robert Corlies. After the initiation the society discussed the art research project that is being undertaken by the society under the chairmanship of Joseph Smith, entertainment and refreshments followed the meeting.

Ruth Guesman spent the week-end in New Jersey.

Personal Notes

HIGH FINANCES

Aladdin was a piker compared with our financial wizards. The world by this time knows of Samuel Insull's public utility empire and the Van Sweringen brothers' railroad empire, both built from a shoestring. But a comparatively unknown man, Harrison Williams, once a bicycle maker, has been telling the Securities and Exchange Commission a fairly tale of American finance that sounds still more marvellous.

Starting with $2,000,000, in a few years Mr. Williams expanded his investment into a mountain of securities which in 1929 were valued at $612,000,000, and which gave him control of a utility network having combined assets of $2,875,000,000. His 1931 income tax of $4,500,000 could have been paid from the earnings on one investment of $9,000 that he made in 1923.

It can be assumed that Mr. Williams' operations were "legitimate," according to current standards, until the contrary is proved. He seems to have done what thousands of men were trying to do, merely succeeding better than most of his big competitors because he was a shrewder player at the game. But that sort of game, with its stupendous profits and losses, its vast pyramiding of holding companies and its reckless use of bank credit, helped to bring on the depression and is one of the great menaces to the capitalist system.

ANTI-WAR CORRESPONDENTS

The present war in Spain may be regarded as a sort of pre-view of "the next war." That is, the next general war that statesmen and generals and historians have been expecting. And as such, it probably serves a useful purpose for nations not engaged in it. At least, for nations that have a free press.

This is not a brand-new idea; but Ernest Hemingway, the American author, puts it interestingly as he prepares to go to the front himself, to write the picture as he sees it. He observes:

Now is the time to do it. Now, before the next war starts. When it comes nobody will be able to write that kind of stuff. The propaganda, the big shots won't let him, and nobody will want to read it anyway, and it will be too late to do any good.

I wouldn't want to be a war correspondent when we get into the next war, but I'm glad of the chance to be one now because the war correspondent who is true to his job is really an anti-war correspondent for the home folks.

We have really had a good deal of the low-down on this war from correspondents already in the field, but it is well to have "the whole works." The old traditions die hard; the old bunk of romanticism and professional militarism still bedevils current history and misrepresents the past. This hideous war, a miniature of the next Armageddon, should be seen and felt and told in all its hideousness. If it is, then the Armageddon may not come—or we may have sense enough to keep out of it.

STEEL PEACE

The most reassuring news lately from the industrial front has been the prospect of peaceful cooperation between capital and labor in the steel industry.

It could hardly have been expected a few months ago that in March of 1937 the leaders of the United States Steel Corporation would be negotiating in a friendly spirit with representatives of John L. Lewis's Committee for Industrial Organization. This labor group now claims 150,000 of the 550,000 workers in the entire industry. It is evidently accepted as the leading group of steel workers.

It looks now as if there is little question of the great mass-production of steel, particularly steel and iron, being continued in this country. That is, the steel industry is not being shut down by the war. It is also looking as if the management of the industry in the near future will be more cooperative with the workers.

gaining. In a far more liberal spirit than has been expected. This is indicated not only in the friendly dealing of the big corporations with the labor unions, but in the generous wage increases now proposed and the establishing of a minimum wage at a higher level than ever before.

We have come far from the days of the Homestead Strike when steel proposes a 40-hour week and an eight-hour day and a minimum wage of $5 a day.

UTOPIA TOMORROW MORNING

Among the Utopian schemes that have been flooding the country is one which aims to establish an "economy of plenty," abolishing poverty and yet maintaining the capitalist system, producing 60 per cent more than we did in 1929 with no greater equipment. It would hold prices down, maintain individual opportunity, establish minimum wages of $3,000 a year, and so on. All this is set forth in a prospectus more elaborate than the United States Constitution, with a thousand details, all of which the inventor seems to regard as essential and unchangeable, and all of which he wants adopted at once.

It only requires a glance at any such scheme, by a normally intelligent person, to reveal its unsoundness. Perhaps never in history, not even in ancient Babylon in the days of Hammurabi or in Athens in the days of Solon, has anybody succeeded in imposing upon a civilized nation a new economic system at one swoop. Even the revolutionary changes of recent years in Russia, Italy and Germany have been matters of trial and evolution. In a free country like ours, especially, important changes can only be accomplished by taking broad and simple ideas one at a time and gradually working out the details.

A WOMEN'S FIELD ARMY

Because millions of dollars are being spent and hundreds of research physicians are working night and day to try to discover the cause of cancer, many may have the idea that until that cause is found nothing can be done to save the lives of those afflicted with cancer. Yet every day men and women are attending clinics where by the use of the X-ray, radium, and the knife many are saved from this dread ailment.

Cancer organizations have tried to inform the world that "cancer is curable," cancer is discovered early and treated early.

It would seem therefore that any and every method by which this information "cancer is curable if discovered early" reaches the public should receive our whole-hearted support.

What should prove a powerful force in spreading the idea that cancer is curable is what will be known as "The Women's Field Army," sponsored by the American Society for the Control of Cancer. "Without guns, without uniforms, without poison gas, a war is being launched. It is a war of education against one of the greatest menaces of life: Cancer. The first drive against cancer is indeed a war to save human life. The soldiers are the women of America and the enemy is cancer and ignorance."

Cancer kills 140,000 persons each year. One half of these could be saved if they sought medical treatment when the cancer danger signals appear.

No subject is surrounded with greater confusion, more ignorance and fear than cancer. Now in the fight to replace fear and ignorance with courageous alertness plus positive action, women have an opportunity for rare service.

The leaders of the organization feel that an educational drive, carried on over a period of years, can save perhaps 40 per cent of the 140,000 who die each year. This Women's Field Army will work through the medical societies of the states or provinces and are arranging for Enlistment Week, March 21-27, when an effort will be made to enroll 300,000 women at a dollar each in this army.

In the meantime, until the cause of cancer is discovered, all of us can do our part to spread the news that cancer is curable if discovered early. By remembering the danger signals that may mean cancer. These danger signals are:

1. Any lump in the breast or other part of the body, especially one which begins to grow or change.
2. Any sore which does not heal, particularly on the face or in the mouth.
3. Any unusual discharge or bleeding from any part of the body. Pain is a late symptom. Don't wait for pain before seeing your doctor.

Sometimes we think everything we see is now being made of cornstarch and the industrial uses of cornstarch really are amazing. Some of them, when we think of them, are just unbelievable. One of them is that cornstarch is being used to make of our milk. But this much seems certain—everything that is being made of cornstarch or wood is not being made of cornstarch or wood. Pretty soon, perhaps, we may be making things out of cornstarch and wood.

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDEMER

SYNOPSIS. When Denny Carter loses his promised job, he and Eve Mannersfield, an attractive New Yorker, postpone their marriage plans. Eve has already given up her good job, and, at her old house in Connecticut, has just lost it. Denny is going to leave her up to the wilds, but at the last minute Milt, a plump, wealthy little widow, carries him off to a dinner, promising to get him a marvelous new job through an old friend of hers.

Chapter Eight

Aunt Lina's House

"I'm afraid," said Mrs. Morton, the little anxious-eyed real estate agent, "that the Jenningses haven't left the place very clean. And how are you going to get your furniture put back?"

Eve, driven through the muddy country roads in Mrs. Morton's old car, said, "Why, the Seymour boys, I suppose. The posse of shiftless Seymours, natives like herself but run-down, imbred, pigging it in the wreck of their ancestral house a quarter of a mile nearer the village than hers, had always afforded a boy or girl or two willing to earn change by doing an hour's work—badly, but doing it."

"But the Seymours aren't there any more," said the house for her, said Mrs. Morton proudly. "The new people are big business people. You ought to see what they've done to the place in one year."

They were nearing the Seymour house. It sat high up, back from the road on a hillside. Eve saw the March sunset that its erstwhile dispirited bulk was trim and fresh-painted; the lawn and drive of eighteenth-century tradition had been restored, the low stone wall mended. Nobody who lived there was going to want to move furniture out of her attic at 35 cents an hour!

And Ellen was presently going to be giggling through her part at the glittering Maxine Elliott. Denny being waited on by Milt's butlers in pairs at the dinner party; Marilyn and Peter lounging and laughing at somebody's warm smoky gay studio party; the chill and dusk of the country evening struck Eve into forlorn helplessness.

Of course a lot of this would have been obviated if she had taken a morning train. But somebody had called up with "Eve darling, I have tickets for a simply wonderful movie; you can get through in time for the train." And somebody else had asked her to luncheon to meet the most marvelous new artist who was crazy like "American Beauty." And her ancestor had been the scholarly, superior-looking Dr. Lancelot Seymour who had arrived and built his homestead along with the old colonel. Aunt Lina had it in a book somewhere: "Elliot Mannersfield, Gent; and his friend Doctor Lancelot Seymour." They had led their prosperous genteel lives together. Perhaps it was the proverbs, after all, that had kept the Mannersfields from running to seed.

People never laughed at Aunt Lina. Somehow, Eve had always been proud of everything about her aunt, even when she had most wanted to get away from old sayings and the country and have some real living. Well, she had had the real living, and her aunt had helped her to it. Meanwhile this unexpected plunge into old things was getting her a little because she was tired and away from Denny and had given up her job.

At any rate, though Eve laughed at herself, it was the proverbs that made her pull herself to her feet and begin to investigate, instead of crying.

"Fire to tire and at it again," she said lightly, striking a match and going into the dining-room.

Telephone disconnected. Electricity off. Furnace, naturally, out. No hot water in the boiler, of course. There was no gas in the village, though Aunt Lina had an electric range for her work. Well, there were at least candles in Eve's suitcase, and food in the peach-basket, and the low-post maple bed which had been loaned to Mrs. Jennings up in the second-floor front bedroom. And you couldn't be frightened in an old house that you had been born in.

She had even little luncheon, she had been too excited. She pulled out two thick slices of whole-wheat bread, buttered them recklessly and filled them with cheese and lettuce, and ate them sitting on the edge of the table, washing them down with milk. Things seemed better after that.

Even though there was a mouse, it smelt the food and ran out into the room, made desperate by two weeks in a deserted house. Eve soft-heartily dropped a crust on the floor for the mouse. "I suppose it's been a mouse-depression for the poor thing," she said, and then thought how sentimental they'd think her sharing food with a mouse like a romantic prisoner!

Well, Aunt Lina hadn't brought her niece up to sit on a pile of rugs and have helpless regrets.

"That isn't how Mannersfields behave!" she could hear her aunt say. "Fire to tire and at it again!"

Two men poked on the door and got Eve out of bed, tomorrow.

Managing Fruit Farms

"Because of the probable rise in the general price level, orchards set at the present time on well-drained soils in the fruit belts of New York probably will be good investments."

This statement is taken from a new Cornell bulletin on farm management for fruit growers. It deals mostly with apples, but other fruits are considered. Hundreds of facts the fruit grower wants to know are given in this bulletin.

WASHINGTON—The terrific pressure on Joe Robinson of Arkansas, majority leader, over the court issue has precipitated outbreaks of his fiery temper that disclose he is not altogether comfortable in his job of putting across the Roosevelt plan.

Congress is composed predominantly of lawyers and to many of them the proposal to expand the court is as sacrilegious as pasting whisky advertisements on a pulpit. As majority leader, Robinson has little choice but to support the President, although in all fairness it must be said that he evidently looks upon the President's proposal as the least upsetting of any of the plans for ending the present impasse.

But added to any scruples he may be forced to hide is the endless tantalizing he must endure. His colleagues look upon him as a possible court appointee. He knows they do and for that reason suffers from mischievous or teasing remarks that under other circumstances he would spoof or ignore.

Three times in 10 days he had tempestuous scenes with reporters. Even his temper acts as guideposts to news hunters, however, and often as not are followed by periods of golden good humor.

Ashurst Laughs

IN sharp contrast is the jesting by Senator Ashurst of Arizona, chairman of the rules committee, considering the court revision program. Early in the session Ashurst had introduced a proposal for a constitutional amendment. When he sharply reversed himself and endorsed the subsequent proposal of the President the questioners were upon him.

"Consistency," he told his colleagues, "is a vice of little minds."

Consistency may be a jewel but too much jewelry is vulgar.

Talked Too Much

TO news men Ashurst told a story: "There once was a country boy in Arizona who took a beautiful city girl rowing on a lake," he related. "So gorgeous were her curls, tinted lashes and rouged cheeks that he soon made passionate address to her, and soon asked her to marry him. Then up came the storm, washed out her curls and smeared the colors on his face. The boy, busy at the oars, became cold and distant."

"Darling," said the lady, "why are you so aloof. Half an hour ago you asked me to marry you."

"But the boy replied: 'I've talked too much already.'"

And with that, Ashurst skipped into his office.

Nursery School

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

There was a time when children learned how to get on with others through contacts in the home. The only child was rarer then than now, and even a family of two or three, there was always a large family of cousins or perhaps neighbors, and there might at any time be a visit to a baby cousin.

In the community life of the village, countryside or small town, a child had a chance to meet all kinds of people. He was not the lonely center of creation, but part of a group which was a cross-section of the world.

Today families are generally small, the only child is by no means the exception, people move from place to place so fast that they have no time to become part of any community, and THE CHILD has become the center of the stage. Life in the average home is no longer a microcosm of the great world, but a carefully cushioned nest organized for the youngster's special comfort.

To offset these conditions the nursery school has been invented. Its object is to give the toddler a chance to meet and play with other children. In this way it is hoped to counteract the loneliness of the modern home. At school the child must learn to give and take if he is to be part of the group.

Unfortunately, the nursery school, though better than nothing, is generally not like the world. It offers too much guidance and oversight. The ideal would be something less formal, perhaps merely a group of children gathered together in some busy home and treated like members of one family, even taking their part in the ordinary routine of daily life.

LONG LIVED

English judges believe in long service. Lord Chief Justice Howard (above) plans to retire—while Justice Avey (right) was on the bench until shortly before he died at 83.

By THOMAS HAMILTON

London (AP)—Because English judges like to go on working as long as American ones, President Roosevelt's campaign to reform the Supreme Court has attracted more attention here than any news from the United States since the Presidential election.

For years there has been agitation to require—or at least persuade—English judges to retire at 75. But it has gotten practically nowhere.

It's Wholly

Lord Chief Justice Howard, second highest ranking English judge, recently announced that he would retire. The date? Only 1955, when he will be a whopping 45.

The life of a judge apparently grows more healthful for one of Howard's colleagues, Justice Horace Avey, who continued on the bench until a few days before his death in 1935 at the age of 83.

No Hard Feelings

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"YES, raw, raw," cawed Christopher Columbus Crow, "we'll leave the subject that way, and you'll leave the cellar without the food in it."

"But the food isn't wasted," growled Jupiter Bear. "Now, just before I went off to sleep Mother Honey Bear told me that there was an old saying about being as hungry as a bear."

"Just suppose we bears all lost our appetites. Just suppose that no bear ever did anything more from now on than nibble ever so slightly once in a great while. That expression could never be used again. It would be a pity, a pity."

"There are no hard feelings, are there?" asked Jelly Bear.

"Oh no," laughed Willy Nilly. "I wouldn't be very honest if I pretended to feel sad because you hadn't had a wonderful welcome and then was upset because you took it yourselves."

"Besides we don't need our winter supply of food now. We'll be getting more and all I ask you to do is to lick up the jelly and jam you have spilled and then get the bucket that stands by the wall and clean up the place."

"We'll do that," said Jelly Bear. "We want to help you, too, you know. So there are no hard feelings. You're sure of that?"

"Quite sure," answered Willy.

WILLY NILLY

Nilly as he and Rip and Christopher left the cellar.

After he had gone upstairs, he thought he would take of a morning it would be all ready for the bear's cellar cleaning. But when he went down to the cellar again the place looked worse than ever.

"It was my idea," said Honey Bear. "And I'll give you my good bear's reason why."

Schirick Grants Permission on Name

A petition of Lillian R. Hoffman, defendant in an annulment action tried in February of 1935, for permission to resume her maiden name has been granted by Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick.

In 1935 Albert Hoffman brought an action for annulment of his marriage to Lillian R. Hoffman of Lloyd. The decree was granted. Peter H. Harp appeared for plaintiff and A. D. and A. W. Lent for the defendant. Application was recently made by the defendant for a modification of the decree annulling the marriage and she asked that the court permit the defendant to resume use of her maiden name, Lillian R. Bennett. There was no opposition to the application.

The application was made on the grounds that the defendant had been employed since the annulment decree and had been using her maiden name. In order to comply with the social security act she asked the court to legalize her use of the maiden name.

Kernonkson Club To Present Play

Kernonkson, March 6—The first production of the newly formed Dramatic Club of the Kernonkson High School will be given in the school auditorium Thursday, March 11, at 8:15 o'clock.

Three one-act plays, "The Tale of a Shirt," "The Monkey's Paw," and "Relax," will be given. The production of these plays should be of interest to the entire community, representing as they do, three very different types of entertainment. Much concentrated effort has been expended on this group of plays, by students. The scenery has been designed and executed by the members of the club, and special lighting will be used.

Guests at Woodstock.

A large delegation of members from Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F. & A. I answered the phone at daybreak. And thought I would surely freeze. Till a voice made me hot all over by saying: "Excuse it, please."

Why is it that some men cheerfully give a waitress a 50-cent tip and then growl when Junior or Little Mary ask for movie money after lunch?

Elise—Did you have a good time shopping yesterday?
Naomi—No indeed. I found the dress I wanted in the very first store I went into.

The fellow who thinks that the whole world is against him never seems to realize that possibly the world doesn't even know he is in it.

Teacher—Junior, what are the seasons?
Junior—You mean in the United States?
Teacher—Yes, of course.
Junior—Baseball and football.

We heard a minister say the other day that if you put a barbed wire fence on each side of it you couldn't keep some men in the straight and narrow path.

Accepted Swain—I know I'm not much to look at.
The Girl—Still, you'll be at work all day.

A good story is told of a cub reporter, by the Wall Street Journal. Here is his last paragraph on a murder story: "Fortunately, for the deceased, he had deposited all his money in the bank the day before. He lost practically nothing but his life."

Fan Dancer—What's become of the India rubber woman?
Bearded Woman—The boss just bounced her.

And this is snipped from the Springfield News: "The final test of personality is to search for your wife's lost glove under the feet of other movie patrons and not get slapped."

An Ohio movie house has installed extra wide seats for fat men. It is a good idea. Keeps 'em from boiling over onto people who sit in the next seat.

Sandy—I wish I knew who put that joke in the paper about the Scotch being so tight.
Lassie—Why don't you phone the editor and ask?
Sandy—What? And who'd pay for the phone call?

Clipped: "The president is studying how to increase wages. No doubt he is including in his studies how to pay them also."

Judge—I'll sentence you to jail for a month. Have you anything to say?
Prisoner—Yes, your honor. I just want to ask one favor. Please telephone my wife and tell her I won't be home for a month. She never believes any of my excuses.

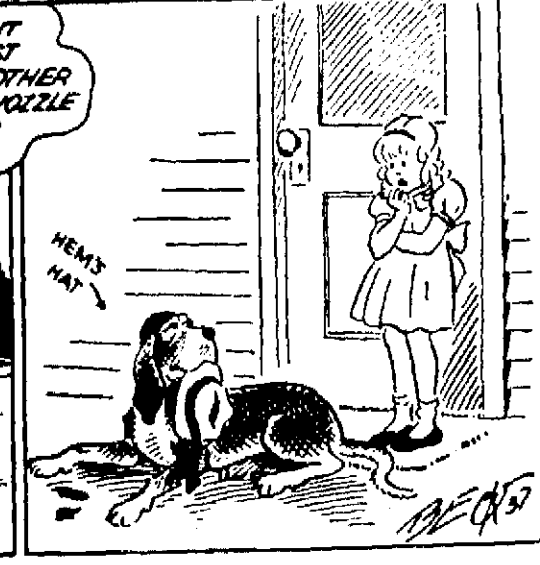

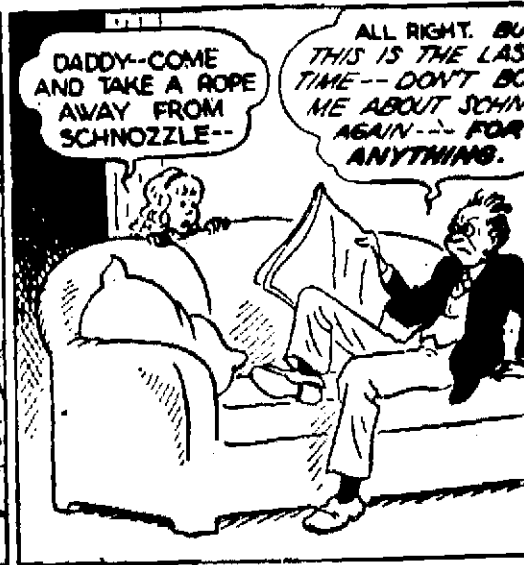

"Nothing is brighter than a baby 10 minutes before its bedtime," says a New Papa. A little learning is a dangerous thing. Experience will teach New Papa that a baby is always brighter at two in the morning.

READ IT OR NOT—
The little state of Andorra has a single house where 750 at a time can see a film. Iceland has three film houses.

White Friend—They tell me that you drink 100 cups of Blank coffee every day.
Negro—Yes, sah, that's true boss.
White Friend—Does it ever bother you? Doesn't it keep you awake?
Negro—Well, it helps.

A quarrel is vulgar no matter how high-toned it is pitched.

HEM AND AMY.

Police Arrest Brothers

Saugerties, March 5—Andrew O'Byron of Quarryville was arrested by Police Chief Richter for public intoxication on Monday afternoon and after spending the evening in the local jail was fined $5 by Judge Bennett. Clarence O'Byron, also of Quarryville, brother of Andrew, was arrested by Officer Richter and charged with disorderly conduct. After a hearing he was fined $10 by Police Justice Bennett.

Town Board Statement

Saugerties, March 5—The town board has notified the public, especially dog owners, that the dog warden has been instructed not to pick up sick dogs or dogs that are to be disposed of at the request of private owners, and that sick dogs or dogs privately owned, dogs to be gotten rid of, must be taken care of and disposed of personally by their owners. The town board will not be responsible for payment to the dog warden for bills contracted in connection with sick dogs or dogs privately owned and to be gotten rid of at the owner's request. Floyd Sweet, the dog warden, has been requested not to answer requests of the above, whereby the charges of $4 for each dog, seizing and killing, is made against the town. In such cases owners must handle these dogs at their own expense.

Asks Assistance for Ex-Soldier Astle

May I ask the privilege of your columns to locate information about a veteran of the World War, in which case I have become interested in a humanitarian way because of his ill health and his inability to have his case properly settled.

The veteran is William H. Astle, Jr., who formerly resided at 108 North Front street, Kingston. I have had him fingerprinted and his fingerprints sent to the War Department, thus beyond doubt establishing his identity as said Astle and a veteran of most exemplary service with medals for bravery in action.

During late years Astle received a government pension, but due to the Economy Act of March 19, 1933, lost it. In his deplorably bad health he is unable to obtain employment of any kind, and likewise cannot be insured with any reliable company. Since losing his pension he has been destitute. Officers of the Veterans' Administration and officers of the courts tell him he has a good case but the law must be abided by. In order for him to have his case reopened, by the Veterans' Administration Court, he has been informed that he must furnish them with affidavits from persons who knew him and had contact with him before the war so that they can state in the affidavits what condition his mental and physical health was prior to his enlistment in the United States Army.

The affidavits must also state the length of time the person making affidavit knew him, in months and years. There must be several in Kingston who recall him, who will be kind and humanitarian enough to fill out an affidavit and send it to me. In order to bring to their minds remembrance of the veteran, I will state that Astle was employed at the Union Pacific Tea Co., Wall street, when Eugene S. Craft was manager; that he also worked in the store and at times was the delivery boy and was nicknamed by all who knew him as "Billy the Tea Boy." He worked for the said company from the fall of 1914 until May 25, 1917.

Astle was a member during these years of Boy Scout Troop I with meeting rooms at Holy Cross Church and was a member of St. John's Church when the Rev. Charles F. Kennedy was rector. He went to public school where Miss Florence Finn was his teacher in the fifth grade. Astle enlisted in the U. S. Army May 25, 1917, from Kingston, N. Y., was with the Medical Department, 12th Field Artillery, Second Division. His records show ten battles and brave service under fire while administering to the wounded. He was honorably discharged August 13, 1919, at Camp Dix, N. J.

Will such persons who are willing to make affidavits giving the state of mental and physical health of Astle as they recall it prior to his war service and while they knew him in Kingston, mail them to me? This will be a very fine humanitarian work for someone who must recall this young man.

I am interested in his case, as past president of the American Legion Auxiliary of this city and present Saratoga County Legion Auxiliary, Chairman of Legislation.

Gratefully yours,
EVELYN M. BENNETT,
39 Church street,
Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

PUBLIC HEARING

A Public Hearing will be held on Monday, March 8th, 1937, in the Common Council chamber, City Hall, Kingston, N. Y., at 12:00 o'clock noon, at which time all persons interested will be given an opportunity to be heard in the matter of Local Law No. 2, of 1937, (known as Local Law No. 18 of the City of Kingston), which authorizes the Board of Police Commissioners to designate the rank and title of officers of the Police Department.

Junior D. A. R. Studies About American Flag

The regular monthly meeting of the Junior Group of Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution was held Monday evening, March 1, at the chapter house, with Miss Catherine McCombs, chairman, presiding.

Mrs. William R. Anderson, regent, opened the meeting with the recitation of the Preamble to the Constitution of the United States which was followed by the usual opening form.

Mrs. R. Frederic Chidsey, chapter adviser, spoke of the splendid returns from the benefit card party held in February for the Approved Schools' program. These schools are supported through the national society of the D. A. R. through its chapters. The party was a success both financially and socially.

Miss Sarah W. Hasbrouck, chairman on the correct use of the flag, gave an interesting and instructive talk on this subject, giving the early history of the United States flag.

Miss Hasbrouck, after first pledging allegiance to the flag, quoted the following words of George Washington: "We take the stars and blue union from heaven, the red from our mother country, separating it by white stripes, thus showing we have separated from her, and the white stripes shall go down to posterity representing liberty. The red of our flag represents valor; the white represents purity; the blue represents truth, sincerity and justice. The five pointed star represents infinity."

Miss Hasbrouck also gave a reading on "Respect Due the Stars and Stripes," and "Tribute to the Flag," by the Rev. T. B. Cowan of Chattanooga, Tenn. The speaker described the conditions under which the National Anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner," by Francis Scott Key, was written on September 14, 1814.

Miss Louise van Hoesen, immediate past regent, organizing regent of the Junior group, and trustee of Wiltwyck Chapter, gave a delightful talk describing the purchase of "Wiltwyck Chapter House." The talk was particularly interesting and informing, as many of the group are new members to Wiltwyck Chapter.

Both Miss Hasbrouck and Miss van Hoesen received much applause for the entertaining and interesting program of the evening.

Four new members were received and welcomed by the regent. They were Mrs. William F. J. Murray, Miss John Gleason Garon, Mrs. Lloyd LeFevre, and Mrs. Frederic Hoffman. The hostesses for the evening were Mrs. William Shuler, Mrs. Edwin Beecher, Mrs. James Westervelt Mann, and Mrs. Reynolds B. Carr. They entertained at a supper party at the home of Mrs. Shuler on Albany avenue. Mrs. William R. Anderson and Mrs. R. Frederic Chidsey poured.

The Coterie

The Coterie will meet tomorrow with Mrs. Frank L. Eastman at her home on Spring street. The program scheduled for February 20 will be followed.

A paper on "Virgil, the Prophet of a New World," will be read by Mrs. J. N. Armstrong. Mrs. H. G. Smith will read two papers, the first on "Dido, the Phoenician Queen," and the second on "The Fall of Troy."

Atharhacton Club

Miss Ethel Hull of Smith avenue entertained the Atharhacton Club yesterday at the regular weekly meeting. Mrs. Harold King and Miss Mary Noone, members of the program committee, presented the list of novels that will be studied next year. The members were asked to read the books during the summer so that the discussions would be more beneficial to them.

"The Rogue Herries" series by Hugh Walpole was the topic of a paper read by Miss Hull. This group of books traces the family through four generations.

Preceding the meeting tea was served by the hostess, who was assisted by Miss Agnes Scott Smith.

Mrs. Willis Locke entertained her card club yesterday at luncheon and an afternoon of bridge.

Mrs. Harold Mandell entertained her bridge club on Tuesday at her home on Lounsbury Place.

Miss Lachmann to Wed

Lake Katrine, March 4—Saturday, March 27, has been set for the marriage of Miss Margaret Lachmann of Lake Katrine to Edmund Osterhout, of Flatbush. Miss Lachmann is the daughter of Paul Lachmann, proprietor of the Lake Katrine Bakery, and the late Mary E. Lachmann. She is a graduate of Kingston High School and the Katherine Gibbs Secretarial School in New York city. Mr. Osterhout also is a graduate of Kingston High School and maintains a dairy farm in Flatbush, in partnership with his mother.

Last Friday Mrs. H. B. O'Connor of 68 Linden avenue entertained at a bridge party in honor of her sister, Mrs. George Dellman, of Newark, N. J.

Mrs. Frederic Hoffman of Fair street returned to her home today after visiting her sister, Mrs. Edmund J. Rose, in Weehawken, N. J.

Daniel Kane, manager of the Baitline Brewing Company, has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Daniel Kane, at East Orange, N. J.

Mrs. Thomas F. Crowley of Fair street is entertaining this evening at an informal dinner party.

The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Frank B. Seeley of Maiden Lane returned last night from a winter vacation at Seabring, Fla.

Theatre Operator's Case Comes Before Special Term Today

Justice Francis Bergan of Albany held the regular special term of Supreme Court today in place of Justice Schirick, who is still vacationing in Florida.

One of the matters to come before Justice Bergan was another chapter in a six year old action pending between Thomas J. Little, motion picture projectionist, and the local theatres and members of the Projectionists' Union. Mr. Little some six years ago, following some dispute between himself and members of the local, was evicted from the union, that matter was tried and the Appellate Division eventually handed down a decision upholding the lower court's decision that he be reinstated. Following that Mr. Little claimed he was unable to get a job as projectionist in any of the three local theatres and he brought an action charging conspiracy.

That action has been in the courts for a long time and during the past year several hearings have been held in examination before trial. That examination was concluded about February 4 and 10 days later in accordance with an order of Justice Schirick a bill of particulars was supplied by plaintiff's attorney. This bill was asked by Mr. Miller, counsel for the operators of the Orpheum Theatre.

The motion today in special term which brought the matter again in the court was a motion of conclusion brought by Mr. Miller for his client. He asked for a more specific answer to some of the items in his request for a bill and objected to certain statements which were contained in the bill which was provided by Arthur B. Ewig, attorney for Mr. Little. He told the court that the bill which had been provided was only a technical compliance, insufficient and evasive and objected specifically on the grounds that there was no copy of a contract made between the union and theatre operators and one of the items upon which the charge of conspiracy is based. He further stated that plaintiff had attempted to argue his case in the bill and had answered eight questions whereas the order had requested answers to but six questions. He further argued that he desired the information asked at least 10 days prior to going to trial and that the plaintiff should be bound by the answers made at that time and not be permitted to come into court on trial and submit testimony which had been discovered after the bill of particulars had been provided and claim that the evidence was newly discovered and had not been available at the time of the giving of the bill.

Mr. Ewig for the plaintiff in the conspiracy action stated that he had no intention of doing that and he told the court that the contract which was referred to by Mr. Miller was in the possession of the defendant, that any contract which was made with the other theatres other than the Orpheum was the same basically as the one which Mr. Miller had possession of, except for minor matters such as number of men to be employed, etc. He argued that he had no copy of the Orpheum Theatre contract and in his answers in the bill of particulars he had been compelled to supply answers relative to the contract from facts which had been made known on the examination before trial.

Further Mr. Ewig argued that none of the other 16 defendants had made application for a bill of particulars. He said that reference had been made to others beside the union members and managers of the theatres as members of the conspiracy to prevent Mr. Little from getting a job in Kingston and one of these parties was Mr. Miller himself.

Mr. Miller said then he being a party to the action he should be supplied with a copy of the contract with the other theatres and the union; that the plaintiff could not charge conspiracy between Miller and the plaintiff based on any contract between the union and other theatres and that the bill asked should be more specific in its answers.

The case is on the March calendar for trial.

Mr. Ewig stated that he did not have in his possession a copy of the contract with the Orpheum Theatre as made by the union and that on the trial he would be compelled to subpoena it from the defendant theatre in whose hands it was.

Judge Bergan took the papers and reserved decision.

Commission's Life Extended by Judge

Justice Bergan on Friday at special term granted the application of the City of New York for an extension of the life of the Condemnation Commission appointed to hear claims arising out of alleged damage to property along the Esopus creek by reason of the introduction of water into the Esopus from the Gilboa reservoir.

Under the law the commissioners are appointed for one year and that time is shortly to expire for this commission. The city asked that the time of the commission be extended to give them time to report. The commissioners are Messrs. Aronowitz, Whittaker and L. E. Terwilliger. The application was granted.

Specimens of 15 races of English and Irish birds which formed part of the famous Rothschild collection have been presented to the British Museum by the New York Museum of Natural History.

SAUGERTIES MAN HELD ON ASSAULT CHARGE

New York, March 5 (AP)—Martin Casey, 71, of Saugerties, N. Y., was held in jail today for hearing March 10 on charges of assault.

He was paroled by Magistrate Jacob Gould Schurman in homicide court on additional charges of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, and dangerous operating.

A car driven by Casey collided last night with another operated by Samuel Gruberg, of The Bronx. Gruberg was taken to a hospital with a fractured rib and internal injuries.

The world's potential shale oil production is estimated at 300,000,000 barrels.

(Made With Baking Powder)
1 cup flour 2 tablespoons fat
1 teaspoon baking powder 1 egg
1/2 cup sugar 1 cup milk
Mix flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in fat and add rest of the ingredients. Pour into shallow greased pan and spread with topping.

Topping

4 tablespoons butter 1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup dark brown sugar 1/2 cup figs (optional)

Mix ingredients and press into the soft dough. Bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven and serve hot with butter.

Roast Lamb And Browned Potatoes

Six-pound lamb 1/2 teaspoon celery salt roast 2 cup boiling water
1 teaspoon salt 8 peeled Irish potatoes
1/2 teaspoon paprika

Wipe off roast with a damp cloth. Fit into a roaster and allow roast to sear for 15 minutes in a hot oven. Add seasonings and half the water. Cover and roast 1 1/2 hours in a moderately slow oven. Add rest of water and potatoes and roast another hour. Turn the potatoes several times and baste the roast often (Gravy may be made from the drippings left in the roasting pan.)

Mulligatawny gets its name from a curry-flavored soup in India.

Eyes Reveal Afflictions

of Person, Oculist Says

Merely by observing the condition of a person's eyes, the oculist gets an index of the working condition of his patient's thyroid glands; whether when he is cross-eyed—he is nearsighted or farsighted; what he hasn't been eating, as well as the nature of the food he has taken in; his approximate age, and whether he has any gallbladder disease, liver trouble, a brain tumor, cancer or locomotor ataxia. Dr. Morris D. Keller reveals these facts in an article "The Eyes Have It," appearing in Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

The only part of the human body where one can see and study a living artery, vein or nerve is in the eye. With an ophthalmoscope one can look into the back of the eye, the fundus, see these structures and, studying them, discover diseases not only of the eye but of other organs of the body also.

Arteries pulsate, veins do not. In the eye the reverse is true. A pulsating central vein is normal. A pulsating central artery is indicative of valvular disease of the heart, an aneurysm of the carotid arteries, anemia or exophthalmic goiter. The blood vessels often rupture, and the resulting hemorrhage into the retina causes an inflammation to be set up.

Letter "C" in Music

The letter C, which is often used for four-four time, does not stand for the word common, as many people think. It is really a relic of the earliest days of printed music. In the Middle Ages, triple time was considered the only perfect rhythm, as the monks considered it represented the Trinity. It was written "C," and was called Perfection. When a different time was admitted, it was called Imperfection, and the circle was broken. This has come to be called "C," representing imperfect or common time, but it did not originally stand for the word common.

Old fashioned apple pie is the favorite dessert of the traveling public. Last year, according to W. W. Swindon, general superintendent of the dining car service of the Canadian National Railway, 35,000 apples found their way into apple pies for consumption on the dining cars of the road.

NOBODY ENJOYS TAKING MEDICINE!

Yet most people at some time suffer from common constipation. Why not correct this condition the natural way—by including a ready-to-eat cereal with your daily meals instead of taking weakening pills and drugs?

Kellogg's All-Bran adds the "bulk" the average system needs. In the body, All-Bran absorbs twice its weight in water, forming a soft, spongy mass—which gently cleanses the intestines.

Kellogg's All-Bran also furnishes vitamins B to tone up the intestines and iron for the blood.

Just eat two tablespoons a day, as a cereal with milk or cream, or cooked into appetizing muffins, breads, etc. Three times daily in severe cases.

All-Bran is sold at all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

MODES of the MOMENT.

Shadow Lace Goes To Dinner

Sheer black shadow lace, feminine as perfume, makes a distinctive dinner frock displayed in the pageant at the Miami Lace Ball. Vionnet designed it with a little rolled collar, long bishop sleeves and a full skirt hemmed in horsehair braid to make it swirl. The clips are sparkling rhinestones.

BE A POPULAR DANCER

To be a popular dancer, scarcely able to circle the floor without a cut-in. That's every girl's dream.

What makes a girl fun to dance with? Perfect rhythm, feather-lightness, responsiveness to every step and turn. A large order, but you can fill it if you have balance.

Modern ballroom dancing is based on balance. That's carrying your weight evenly over the balls of your feet—always. In dancing backward don't throw your weight onto your heels—or you'll find yourself being pushed like a balky wheelbarrow and your partner praying for the dance to end.

In stepping backward, keep weight on the ball of the forward foot until your stepping foot is in place, ready to share the load. Also, on backward steps swing from the hip and reach back as far as possible with the toe. Chopping off your backward steps is just inviting the man to tread on your toes.

To be a really good dancer, you must know basic waltz, foxtrot, tango and rumba steps, and be able to do them alone. Then you'll change from a lifeless follower to a graceful partner who knows what the man is going to do before he does it.

There's a real thrill and added popularity in store for you when you learn the fascinating steps explained and diagrammed in our 40-page booklet, SOCIAL DANCING SELF-TAUGHT. Twenty-five important steps. Tips on leading and following.

Send 15c for our booklet, SOCIAL DANCING SELF-TAUGHT, to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 109 West 19th street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

MONTGOMERY WARD

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

New York, March 5 (AP)—Stocks were whirled up 1 to 5 or more points in today's market as traders scrambled for the steel and rails.

A heavy buying wave in the first hour swept many leaders to new recovery tops and, for a time, the ticker tape was several minutes behind floor dealings.

Led by U. S. Steel with a jump across 125 to 6-year peak, large blocks of the favorites changed hands. Profit selling later stemmed the tide and extreme gains were reduced in many instances near the final period.

General Electric picked up after early apathy. Transfers were around 2,700,000 shares.

Spurring the upturn, brokers said, was "Big Steel's" announcement late yesterday of a sharp increase in prices of its products which were expected to move than overcome bonated payrolls, shorter hours and expanding material costs.

Few repercussions were noted from the French decision to inaugurate a free gold market. Fresh labor difficulties and the President's victory dinner speech were also seen as negligible influences.

Foreign news was at the front Thursday. The French cabinet called a special meeting to be held two hours before the Bourse opened today; finance minister admitted that some financial action would be taken.

Yesterday, a French half-holiday, franc dropped in heavy dealings in London before British exchange control intervened. Sterling declined. London market dropped in Amsterdam. American shares were strong.

U. S. foreign trade report for January showed merchandise exports and imports up 12 per cent and 28 per cent respectively as compared with year before; there was an excess of imports during the month of $18,846,000.

U. S. Steel announced price rises of $3 to $8 a ton. Other members of industry are expected to meet increases.

Bliss & Laughlin voted a 50-cent quarterly vs. 37 1/2 cents quarterly, plus extras, paid previously. Pittsburgh Plate Glass declared $1.

North American Co.'s 1936 net is estimated at $1.75 a common share vs. $1.55 in 1935.

L. & N. Railroad reported January net operating income of $907,133 against $1,289,842 in January, 1936. New York, Ontario & Western showed January net loss of $131,769 vs. net surplus after charges of $16,231 in January last year.

Northern Pacific announced equipment orders totaling $8,100,000. Pure oil contracted for a $2,000,000 expansion to double capacity of Toledo refinery. Gulf Refining bought land adjacent to Toledo refinery for $2,500,000 development program.

Aircraft production last year numbered 3,046 planes, up 78 per cent from 1935.

February store sales included: Woolworth $19,758,264, up 3.9 per cent over year ago; W. T. Grant $5,617,104, up 2.4 per cent; McCrory $2,661,578, off 1.1 per cent; H. L. Green $2,019,037, up 8.1 per cent; McClellan $1,248,652, up 8.1 per cent; Edison Bros. $1,237,209, up 17.6 per cent.

Stock volume Thursday was 2,730,000 shares vs. 3,570,000 Wednesday.

The average American eats more than a ton of food a year. His diet includes 42 pounds of beef, 12 pounds of coffee, 142 pounds of sugar, 177 pounds of flour, 150 pounds of potatoes and 215 pounds of milk.

Aside from the major steel issue, outstanding on the forward tilt were Bethlehem, Youngstown Steel and Tube, Crucible Steel, Republic.

American Rolling Mill, General Motors, Chrysler, N. Y. Central, Delaware & Hudson, Anaconda, Kennecott, International Nickel, U. S. Smelting, American Smelting, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Marshall Field, United Aircraft, Standard Oil of N. J., Johns-Manville, Baldwin Locomotive and Canada Dry.

Hillites lost their vigor of the preceding session. Hesitant also were American Telephone, Western Union, American Can, Westinghouse and General Electric.

Bonds and commodities did little either way.

A brush fire near the summer home of Dr. Harry Van Wageningen on the north boulevard Sunday was soon extinguished by local firefighters.

Business callers in the hub of the reservoir country Wednesday included C. W. Hughes and M. J. Gorse-line, both of Mechanicville.

Junk buyers are more active here than in many years, their number including several local men as well as Kingston dealers. Even the dumps in wooded places are combed for pieces of iron and other metals, while houses to house calls are of almost daily occurrence.

Mrs. Burton Christiana and Miss Marjorie Davis of Kingston were callers here Sunday.

The First Election district of Olive was well represented by voting taxpayers at the election held Tuesday in the Tongore hall for the purpose of deciding whether or not to erect a town garage at Broadhead.

The voters registered a small majority against the project.

March 6, 1888, at the annual Olive town meeting, James McMillan of Broadhead was elected supervisor by a majority of five votes. Other elections were: Asa Bishop, town clerk; Lewis W. Bardin, justice of the peace; Abram Pallen, commissioner of highways, and Watson Bishop, collector. At the town meeting held March 5, 1889, Mr. McMillan was defeated for re-election by Delancy N. Mathews, a Republican, and the remainder of the Democratic ticket was elected by majorities ranging from 7 to 150 votes.

Members of the Shokan Home Bureau met Thursday afternoon for their second lesson of the project, "Grooming," as taught by Mrs. Sam Friedman of Ashokan. The instructor at this meeting demonstrated both a hot oil and a dry shampoo. The art of finger-waving the hair also was explained by Mrs. Friedman. One of the accessories used in the course of the lesson was a novel curler for fashioning short curls. The local leaders decided to meet next Tuesday morning at the residence of Mrs. Floyd Merriweather to plan the program for next bureau year. The time and place of the annual election of officers will be announced later.

C. H. Stokes, well known Kerhonkson business man, was a caller in the village center recently.

Frank Barringer has improved his attractive north boulevard place by parking the hemlock grove adjoining his house on the east.

Fresh eggs are selling for 23 cents a dozen in the local stores. Poultrymen are paying $2.70 a bag for scratching grains and $3.20 for laying mashers.

Charles Peroneus is numbered among the local residents who are taking advantage of the good maple sap season. The run of sap from Monday through Thursday was first rate, one operator having gathered an average of two barrels a day. A high wind accompanied by rain

SHOKAN

Shokan, March 5.—Daniel B. Sempron, superintendent of the Shokan Reformed Sunday school, is ill at his farmhouse in the heights neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Adst entertained a number of friends at bridge Monday night.

Alonso Van Wagner, Jr., is the latest pupil of the Shokan school to contract the chicken pox. There are now only five members of the school who have not become victims of the current epidemic of the chicken pox.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church held its March meeting Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. William Green in Ashokan. Mrs. William Tuceiling, president of the Aid, presided at the meeting. The ladies decided to hold Wednesday evening, March 31, another old-fashioned social in the church basement. Mrs. August Pfau and Mrs. Fred Adst were appointed a committee to arrange for the party.

The secretary, Mrs. Charles Giles, was instructed to convey a vote of thanks to Justus and Earl North for making stands for holding flowers in the church auditorium. Mrs. Clyde Winchell and Miss Edna Longyear were appointed a committee to decorate the church for Easter Sunday. The members were asked to meet next Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Green to join in working on a quilt for the annual fair. Those attending Wednesday's meeting were as follows: Mrs. Charles Giles, Mrs. Fred Adst, Mrs. William Tuceiling, Mrs. George Giles, Mrs. Herman Bell, Mrs. August Pfau, Mrs. Clyde Winchell, Mrs. Frank Barringer, Miss Edna Longyear, Mrs. Gould Peroneus, Mrs. John Davis and Mrs. William Green. The next meeting of the Ladies' Aid will take place Wednesday afternoon, April 7, at the home of Mrs. Tuceiling.

The voters registered a small majority against the project.

March 6, 1888, at the annual Olive town meeting, James McMillan of Broadhead was elected supervisor by a majority of five votes. Other elections were: Asa Bishop, town clerk; Lewis W. Bardin, justice of the peace; Abram Pallen, commissioner of highways, and Watson Bishop, collector. At the town meeting held March 5, 1889, Mr. McMillan was defeated for re-election by Delancy N. Mathews, a Republican, and the remainder of the Democratic ticket was elected by majorities ranging from 7 to 150 votes.

Members of the Shokan Home Bureau met Thursday afternoon for their second lesson of the project, "Grooming," as taught by Mrs. Sam Friedman of Ashokan. The instructor at this meeting demonstrated both a hot oil and a dry shampoo. The art of finger-waving the hair also was explained by Mrs. Friedman. One of the accessories used in the course of the lesson was a novel curler for fashioning short curls. The local leaders decided to meet next Tuesday morning at the residence of Mrs. Floyd Merriweather to plan the program for next bureau year. The time and place of the annual election of officers will be announced later.

C. H. Stokes, well known Kerhonkson business man, was a caller in the village center recently.

Frank Barringer has improved his attractive north boulevard place by parking the hemlock grove adjoining his house on the east.

Fresh eggs are selling for 23 cents a dozen in the local stores. Poultrymen are paying $2.70 a bag for scratching grains and $3.20 for laying mashers.

Charles Peroneus is numbered among the local residents who are taking advantage of the good maple sap season. The run of sap from Monday through Thursday was first rate, one operator having gathered an average of two barrels a day. A high wind accompanied by rain qualls slowed up the sap Thursday evening.

The bridge club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Sant Nadal on Van Stoenburgh road.

Mrs. Jennie Markle Towne, who passed away in Kingston Sunday, was well known to many of the older residents of Shokan and Ashokan. Mrs. Towne formerly was a frequent visitor in this section; her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Winchell Markle, resided on the Plank Road on property now a part of the reservoir preserve.

A covered dish supper will be served in the Reformed Church basement Wednesday, March 10, for those attending the congregational meeting that evening.

Leonard F. Buckert is the early bird in raising spring chickens; some of his chickens are running out doors and making rapid strides toward the broiler stage.

Charles Duluff is continuing to get out ash lumber in large quantity at his Boiceville mill. Also, and rather a novelty for this section, is a popular log, nearly three feet in diameter, awaiting its turn at the circular saw.

Mrs. C. H. Weidner of the west side of the reservoir attended the Home Bureau meeting here Thursday.

Sylvester Wells and Lawrence Quick are doing a good chopping and parking job at the picturesque Oakes farm near Traver Hollow.

The WPA road job below the tractor at Brown Station is reported to be practically completed. There is some talk that the Shokan mountain road is listed for early improvement as a WPA project.

MODENA

Modena, March 5.—The meeting conducted by Modena Home Bureau in Hasbrouck Memorial Hall on Wednesday, March 10, will commence at 11 a. m., when the "Nutrition" project will be demonstrated. Luncheon will be served at noon for a small fee. The "Grooming" demonstration will commence at 1 o'clock.

The Homeland Farms at Tillson delivered 300 baby chicks to Lester Wager at the Sleepy Valley Farm on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mathelsen and children were in Kingston Wednesday.

A new porch is being added to the tent house of Peter Smith, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Preston Palfridge and family. Fred Bernard is in charge of the carpenter work.

Public Speaking Contest

The Ulster County Home Bureau plans to conduct a Public Speaking Contest. The winner of which will enter the District Contest of the Eastern District of the New York State Federation of Home Bureaus which will be held in Saratoga on May 7.

In order to have a speaker enter the contest with the necessary confidence it is planned to give a short course in public speaking which will comprise the writing of the speech as well as the delivery—therefore, an initial get-together is to be held on Friday, March 12, at 10 a. m. in the Home Bureau office. If enough interest is shown the course will be arranged for at once. Only Home Bureau members can enter the contest but any ladies interested may join the instruction course by registering their intention at the Home Bureau office, 280 Wall street.

The Public Speaking instructions will be announced later. If registration warrants swamping the course.

WHAT IS HOME WITHOUT A GARDEN?

COLD FRAME IS AMATEUR'S FRIEND

The Cold Frame Story—How to Build and Use It.

It Provides Means for Growing Early and Tender Flowers and Vegetables

In those tantalizing weeks of early spring, when a warm sun one day sets the garden fever burning, and freezing weather that night chills the courage, a cold frame is priceless.

Everybody needs one, though he may have a hot-bed, or even a greenhouse in addition. To the great majority of home gardeners, the cold frame will suffice for all real needs in early sowing.

Easy to build, and simple to operate, it enables seeds to be sown several weeks before it would be safe to sow them in the open. With the protection of the glass sash on frosty nights the seeds will germinate, and the seedlings grow sturdily, until they are large enough to transplant into the open ground.

Success in cold frame practice depends upon the judgment used in timing the sowing, so that when transplanting date arrives the danger of frost injury is past. Sowing dates may vary with different crops; depending on the length of germination periods, which vary greatly in flower seeds, and on the tenderness of the seedling plants. While all baby plants, like baby animals, are less hardy and resistant than adults, some will stand light frosts while others will die at a touch of frost.

The earlier you wish to sow seeds, the more important these considerations of detail become. If you are content to wait with sowing until four weeks before it would be safe to plant outdoors, it should be safe to go ahead with anything.

To make a cold frame, the accompanying illustrations give full and detailed instructions. The soil which is used in it should be fine, friable top soil, well pulverized. Sow the seed as you would in a flat, or hot-bed, water thoroughly and firm the soil over the seed, pressing smooth with a brick, or piece of board.

Watering now becomes of great importance. At no time should the soil be allowed to become hard and dry. Yet excessive watering may cause the seeds to rot, sour the soil, or cause "damping off." When the plants appear, thin them out, allowing each to grow singly without crowding.

After the seedlings appear, watering is still important. Good drinks, between which the soil dries somewhat without becoming crusty and hard, should be the rule. And fresh air is the next great need. On sunny days the sash should be lifted early in the morning, otherwise the temperature may quickly run to a dangerous height. Inspect the cold frame at least every morning and afternoon, and remember it whenever the weather changes abruptly. You will soon learn the program needed to keep the young plants growing vigorously, which means with good heavy roots and strong stems, stocky rather than tall and spindly.

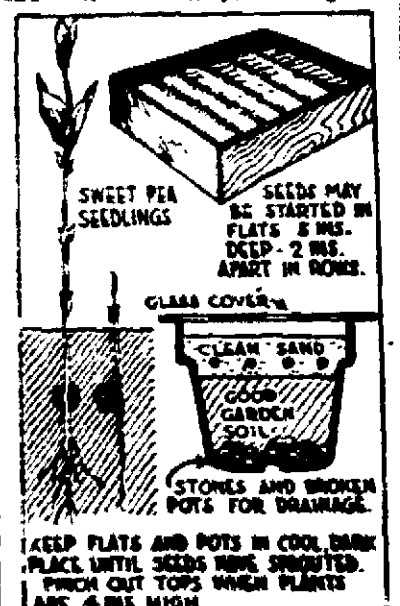

When transplanting time comes, take up the seedlings with as little disturbance of the roots as possible, and get them back into the ground as soon as you can.

EARLY START PROLONGS SWEET PEA FLOWERING

Sweet peas should flower before the weather turns hot, so an early start will prolong their flowering season. There was a time when experts thought they should not be transplanted, but this is not true of modern seed, which may be started indoors in late winter or early spring.

Take care in preparing pots or flats, using good soil in a container which allows for perfect drainage. Fill to about an inch and a half from the top, and add a layer of reasonably fine, not sifted, builder's sand, washing it first to eliminate vegetable matter.

Seed should be pressed down into this sand to a depth of half an inch. Finally, firm the sand over the seed and water thoroughly, allowing it to

How to Grow Sweet Peas

Peas should be sown in a cool place, for they have a tendency to rot, but if it has adequate drainage, and seed is sown this danger is minimized.

Do not grow peas in a warm, dark place, where the temperature is maintained at 60 to 65 degrees, and cover should be removed daily and sprayed with tepid water. In ten to fifteen days the seeds will have germinated, and the temperature should be lowered to about 40 degrees, a few degrees at a time over a period of a week.

Keep the seedlings in this cool atmosphere, continuing to give them plenty of light. These circumstances will allow for sturdy root growth at the expense of top growth which is not needed. When they are 4 inches tall, transplant three to a 5-inch pot of about 2 inches apart each way in a flat, keeping them out of the sun for a week to harden them to the new situation. Pinch out the tip of leading branch when 2 inches high. When danger of severe freezing is over, you can keep them in the cold frame until time to set in the garden.

Get Ready for Bedding Plants

Greenhouses already are full of activity planting seeds of the bedding annuals, which will adorn our porch and window boxes and outdoor gardens in the spring.

Although much in advance of outdoor planting operations, it is not too early to give some thought to your plans for decoration this summer—and perhaps put in an order or suggestion for the plants you will want.

These bedding plants are not appreciated as much as they deserve to be. We buy them by the dozen in small containers, packed in a helter-skelter manner, and may forget that the florist has completed a difficult task in growing them from seed weeks before they could safely be planted outdoors.

Considering how inexpensive they are and how quickly they come into full bloom, we should make extensive use of them both at home and as grave decorations. For the latter purpose the Alternanthera, has fine greenery. Ageratum, sedum, cupressa, or star plant (which has a bright red bloom on the top of its shaft) and verbena with sparkling, tiny clusters of petals, many of them with contrasting centers, are all good selections.

Such annuals as the petunias, asters, salvia and lobelia have many uses in the spring, not the least of which are in front yard plantings. Renters who do not desire to go to the expense of permanent plantings, will find bedding annuals an alternative in the front yard, where small borders, and colorfully lined walks can be constructed in a few hours by using plants.

One of the best uses for such plants is in accent beds or borders around the home entrance. This is particularly suitable to the modern type of building, which is built with severe lines. Pots of flowering annuals such as marigolds and petunias can be set to border the walk, the entrance steps, or the balustrade of the porch.

It is a good plan to study your needs beforehand, and know just what flowers and colors will appear best, so that you can order early and get a good selection.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, March 5—The 11 children of the Bushkill school together with their teacher, Miss Winifred Smith, were specially entertained at dinner on Wednesday as guests of the West Shokan Ladies' Aid, meeting at Roy Van Demark's hall. Among those present were Mrs. Nellie Jones, Mrs. Marshall Roosa, Mrs. Addie Van Demark, hostess, Mrs. Idella North, Miss Idella Van Demark, Mrs. Ole Bell, Mrs. John Brethaupt, Mrs. Ray Wean, Mrs. Fannie Boice, Mrs. Charles Richter, Mrs. Mary Hyde, Mrs. Ernest Eckert, Mrs. Lauren Bell, Mrs. Raymond Bell, Mrs. Rachel Kerr and daughter, Jennie, Mrs. George Terwilliger, Mrs. Hubert Roosa of Kingston, John Brethaupt, Roy Van Demark and Sylvester Jones. Next week on Wednesday again the meeting will be held at Van Demark's hall in order to complete a quilt.

Harold Boice and Mr. Smith of Hurley were callers here Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Datura Avery, senior Maple Dell Farm hostess, is ill at her home with grip.

Mrs. Gardner Donahoe and family of Krumville visited her mother, Mrs. Fannie Boice, of Main street, on Tuesday.

Fred Johnson of Lake Hill called on old friends hereabout Sunday afternoon. He was accompanied by Mr. Rose, also of Lake Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. John Brethaupt of the Bushkill sector were callers at West Shokan Heights Tuesday afternoon.

The West Shokan school children are highly elated over the fine run of maple sap the school yard trees are producing. Perhaps they may enjoy several sugaring off parties.

The West Shokan basin ice field is reluctant to break up. The extreme upper end has been open water for a week but below the Bushkill stream inlet the main body remains pretty well intact. The ice usually holds until the latter part of March.

E. C. Davis' new garage, an addition to his barn, is finished except for painting.

Charley Duloff and Ed Every, the hustling lumbermen, are putting the logs over the saw at a rapid clip. They have an ash sawing contract of some 15,000 feet of logs trucked from Woodlawn valley about finished. On Thursday the hustlers were engaged hauling logs for James Harrison to saw into lumber for his new poultry plant.

IRON IN HIS BLOOD

Railroader Follows "Horses" Even in Retirement.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 5 (AP)—Judson Hungerford just can't give up railroading.

He herded iron horses for 50 years on the Lackawanna before retiring. Then he bought 244 acres near Pavilion and started farming.

But Hungerford was careful to buy the farm far enough away so that he has to commute by rail from Buffalo. He makes the 50-mile round trip three times weekly—in a freight train caboose.

Permit Granted

Lowville, March 5 (AP)—L. P. M. Gasford, Lewis county superintendent of highways, today announced a permit has been granted by the federal communications commission for operation of a short wave station by the county Highway Department.

Mr. Gasford said the permit was the first issued to a county to keep track of snowplows during winter storms. He said the station would be of 50-watt power and would be a two-way communication system.

"Abner," Say French

Paris, March 5 (AP)—Informed French sources said today an accusation that France is attempting to stir up trouble for the insurgents in Spanish Morocco is "absurd." They said it was likely General Francisco Franco, the insurgent dictator, was trying to create trouble for France with arguments and Italy.

MT. MARION
Mt. Marion, March 4.—The Ladies Aid of the Plattekill Reformed Church will present members of the Congregational Church of Saugerties in the "Stolen Sapphire" on Friday, March 5, at the church hall.
The Ladies Aid held an all-day quilting at the church hall on Tuesday. A representative from the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Co. gave a demonstration luncheon which was much appreciated by those present.
Mt. Marion P. T. A. has postponed its meeting until Tuesday, March 16. On that date Dr. Mae E. Peabody will attend and conduct a discussion between the parents and teen-age children of the school. Mt. Marion has accepted Ruby P. T. A.'s kind invitation to attend their meeting on Thursday, March 11, and it is hoped that as many of the Mt. Marion P. T. A. as possibly can will attend.
Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. John Dederick, who have been spending the winter in St. Petersburg, Fla., that they will be home some time next week.
Victor Haslam had the misfortune to cut his foot severely on Wednesday while splitting wood. Dr. James Krom was called and found it necessary to take seven stitches. Mr. Haslam is now able to be about on crutches and is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Plass for a while.
Warren Schmidt of Bridgeport, Conn., spent Sunday here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Van Benschoten.
Walter Walsh returned to his home here on Monday after spending two months with his sister in New York city.
Mr. and Mrs. William Cramer and daughter of Brooklyn spent the holiday weekend with Mr. Cramer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Cramer. Mrs. William Cramer and son, William, Jr., accompanied them on their return to the city and returned home from their visit on Friday afternoon.
Mrs. H. Clinton Finger is visiting at the home of her son, C. Herbert Finger, in Milford, Conn.
Jeanne Myer is confined to her home with a severe case of flu poisoning and is under the care of Dr. McCaig of Saugerties.
Mt. Marion 4-H Club met at the home of Mrs. George Gillson on Saturday for a business meeting and work on the skirt and blouse project.
The Willing Workers Sunday School class held a meeting at the home of Mrs. Archie Van Benschoten with 17 members and seven visitors.

Phrenology Dates Back to Times of Aristotle
Phrenology in its essentials goes back to Aristotle, who thought that the comparatively great volume of man's brain was the reason for his mental superiority over the other creatures. Aristotle even attempted to locate cranial centers of common sense, imagination, judgment, reflection and memory, observes a writer in the Detroit Free Press.
After the Greeks, men continued to study these theories. In the sixteenth century a Venetian named Lodovico Dolce worked out a brain map—similar to those so popular 300 years later—in which he professed to locate centers of nine human characteristics.
It remained, however, for Francis Joseph Gall, a native of Tiefenbaum, Germany, and later a physician in Vienna, to bring phrenology to its flower. Gall was born in 1758, the son of a mayor of Tiefenbaum. He was apparently a natural phrenologist.
"At the age of nine," relates his disciple, George Combe, Esq., of Edinburgh, "he first noticed a connection between prominent eyes and verbal memory. With the cause of that prominence he was then unacquainted, but afterwards ascertained it to be the predominant size of a certain cerebral convolution which, by pressing on the posterior part of the superior orbital plate, pushed the eye outwards. This was the first observation which led the youthful philosopher to seek for external signs of the mental faculties."

present. At the business meeting it was decided to have a parcel post booth at the annual fair to be held July 5. It was also decided that the members donate as much as possible to the treasury of the class before March 15 to replenish the class treasury. Miss Elsie Werner was able to attend the meeting and thanked everyone for the cards received by her in a card shower while she was ill. After the business meeting various games were played and chicken sandwiches, cake and home-made pineapple ice cream were served. Everyone enjoyed herself thoroughly and declared Mrs. Van Benschoten a royal hostess.

Hollywood
Sights And Sounds
By Reubin Coen
HOLLYWOOD—The young man was in a quandary. He represented an organization holding its national convention in Los Angeles. Somebody had sent out invitations, and then appointed the young man as the "entertainment committee."
The invitations had invited conventioners specifically (1) to meet and play with movie stars and (2) to dance with Ginger Rogers. All the young man had to do was (1) to assemble movie stars for the conventioners to meet and play with and (2) to get Ginger Rogers.
Now movie stars are notoriously not fond of meeting and playing with strangers, and Miss Rogers, after dancing all day with Fred Astaire, might be justified in turning down an invitation to dance with several hundred howling, ripsnorting convention visitors.
The last I saw of the young man he was still in a quandary.

Conventions A Problem
Hollywood (meaning the movie studios) is not so fond of conventions as it might be. It deals with them as tactfully and considerately as expediency permits, but it more frequently turns thumbs down cold. Convention delegates themselves, with a little reflection, would understand why this is so. Making pictures is an industry, and two or three hundred visitors at a time—each goggle-eyed and, oh, so interested—can clutter up a set like a sit-down strike.
The usual procedure, when studio courtesies are in order, is to conduct a bus tour through the lot, denying the stages to the badge-wearers. Because the latter want to see movies in the raw, they rarely are content with this. Nor are they satisfied generally (and a hardbitten veteran of many experiences is my authority) with a look-see on a set or two. What they seem to want is to ogle a Dietrich love scene or one of Garbo's intimate moments.
Diplomacy Called For
Failing to achieve this, not a few conventioners have left the studios in a pout. On one occasion, when diplomacy dictated some sort of concession, a studio assembled several stars for lunch in its dining room, had Al Jolson and other entertainers perform, and thought its guests would be happy. But they didn't get on the sound stages—and some of them spoke their minds about that. That's how trying to be nice makes enemies.

At The Theatres
Today
Broadway: "Men Are Not Gods." From London comes the age old eternal triangle idea, all dressed up in new garments as it describes the anguish of two women in love with the same man with all its resulting jealousy, hate, despair and emotion. The show gets pretty melodramatic at times and like most English made pictures, it sometimes drags to a point of disinterest. But the play is satisfactory in a broad sense. Starring Miriam Hopkins, the supporting British cast includes the brilliant Gertrude Lawrence, Sebastian Shaw, Rex Harrison and A. E. Matthews. Walter Reisch directed.
Kingston: "Woman-Wise" and "Conflict." Waves of humor wash the screen in "Woman-Wise," a boy meets girl story wherein the heroine uses violence to awaken the hero to the realization of his deep love for her. It's fairly adequate comedy and Michael Whelan and Rochelle Hudson make a good love team. Alan Dinehart is featured. "Conflict" is the other attraction, a drama based on Jack London's "Abyssal Brute." John Wayne and Jean Rogers are featured.
Orpheum: "Happy Go Lucky" and "Cavalry." Nonsense, laughter, music and romance are jointly offered in the first of the Orpheum features with Evalyn Venable and Phil Regan sharing equal honors. "Cavalry" is the other film being offered the public, a zipping melodrama of brave men and brave deeds with Bob Steele in the stirrups.

Tomorrow
Broadway: "On the Avenue." Irving Berlin's grand music is the hit of this feathery musical drama, one of the great pictures of 1937, a gay, effervescent song and dance novelty with Dick Powell at his best and Madeline Carroll at her loveliest. Others in the giant array of featured artists include Alice Faye, The Ritz Brothers, Alan Mowbray, Stepin Fetchit, George Barbier, Cora Witherspoon and Sig Ruman. Some of the year's cheeriest songs are to be discovered in this production, sung to perfection by Miss Faye and Mr. Powell. Roy Del Ruth directed the spectacle and 20th Century Fox produced it.
Kingston: "The Plough and the Stars." The Irish Rebellion is the background for this strangely moving story, a story new to screen adaptation because it looks into the troubled minds of men fired with a desire to die for an ideal of social justice. Ofttimes bitter, sometimes hauntingly tender, it is a play well worth witnessing because of its meaning, its fine characterizations and its careful direction. Taken from Sean O'Casey's novel, the picture stars Barbara Stanwyck with

Nation Cannot Wait Slow Court Change Says Pres. Roosevelt

ment act "were successfully outlawed as the child labor statute had been outlawed 20 years before."

"You know who assumed the power to veto, and did veto that program," he reiterated after mentioning each law.

Recalling the decision which ended NRA regulation of hours and wages and the subsequent decision against a state wage law, he said these declared no legal power existed for the nation "to deal with its most difficult problems—a no man's land of final utility."

"Furthermore," he continued, raising his hand for silence, "for I'm not through yet, court injunctions have paralyzed the machinery which we created by the labor relations act to settle great disputes raging in the industrial field."

"We hope that this act may escape final condemnation by the highest court," he said, disclaiming the unwritten tradition whereby decisions impending in the courts are not made subject of comment by officials in other branches.

Action—Now:

Time and again, in referring to the policies behind New Deal laws which have been invalidated, the President "defied" anyone to read the opinions of the court and tell what, if anything, could be done at this session of congress to effect those policies "with any reasonable certainty that what we do will not be nullified as unconstitutional."

Affirming his belief in those policies, he said:

"We cannot afford, either individually or as a party, to postpone or run from that fight on advice of defeatist lawyers."

"Here is one third of a nation ill-nourished, ill-clad, ill-housed—now!" he exclaimed.

In short, pointed sentences he referred to the farm problem, "inadequate pay" child labor, strikes, threats of flood and dust-storms crossing state lines, and added each time the same word—"Now!"

"If we would keep faith with those who had faith in us, if we would make democracy succeed, I say we must act—now!"

With that, he looked across the room, waved repeatedly to the shouting, applauding crowd as it stood to bid him farewell, and then returned to the White House.

MARKETS FOR FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

New York, March 5 (AP).—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets)—The apple and pear market was steady to firm for attractive quality fruit and dull for all kinds of vegetables today. ## Rev. Houst Died In City, Thursday

The Rev. Henry Robert Houst of Rosendale died in Kingston on Thursday, March 4, after a brief illness. The Rev. Mr. Houst was born in Hessen, Germany, on August 14, 1861. He came to this country at the age of 17. His early years were spent as a survivor in the Alleghany Mountains. Later he became postmaster and general manager of a country store in Troutville, Pa. In July, 1889, he consecrated his life to the ministry. He walked many miles to preach the gospel in the different schoolhouses along the countryside. He suffered many hardships, but this did not alter his determination. He studied evenings to fit himself for his new calling and finally was admitted to the evangelical association as a pastor. On July 27, 1893, he was united in marriage to the late Emma J. Kalme of Hanover, Germany; a boyhood sweetheart.

The following spring he was assigned his first charge, Grove and Loone Lake, Hamburg, Liverpool and Albany followed. He then joined the Methodist East German Conference and served as pastor in the following fields: Sea Cliff, Amsterdam, Gloversville, Elizabeth, N. J., Akron, N. Y., Oakfield, Dunkirk, Baltimore, Md., Mt. Vernon, New Rochelle, 55th street, New York city, and his last charge, Poughkeepsie.

His health forced him to retire from active service in 1925. A great lover of the outdoors, he spent many happy hours in his beautiful gardens. Several days ago he became ill with grip from which he partially recovered. Complications set in and on March 4, he died quietly. He was a member of the Hiawatha Lodge, No. 434, F. & A. M., Mt. Vernon. He is survived by eight children and 19 grandchildren: four sons, Henry Otto, George Ivan, Walter Frederick, and Raymond Lawrence; four daughters, Mrs. Harry Hefly, Mrs. Ernest Atkins, Mrs. W. N. Snyder and Mrs. Percy Zugalla. Funeral services will be held from his late residence at Rosendale, Sunday at 2:30 p. m. Interment in Rosendale Plains cemetery.

His health forced him to retire from active service in 1925. A great lover of the outdoors, he spent many happy hours in his beautiful gardens. Several days ago he became ill with grip from which he partially recovered. Complications set in and on March 4, he died quietly. He was a member of the Hiawatha Lodge, No. 434, F. & A. M., Mt. Vernon. He is survived by eight children and 19 grandchildren: four sons, Henry Otto, George Ivan, Walter Frederick, and Raymond Lawrence; four daughters, Mrs. Harry Hefly, Mrs. Ernest Atkins, Mrs. W. N. Snyder and Mrs. Percy Zugalla. Funeral services will be held from his late residence at Rosendale, Sunday at 2:30 p. m. Interment in Rosendale Plains cemetery.

Studts Injured In Auto Mishap

Walking across Broadway at Thomas street, Thursday night about 7:30 o'clock, Ernest Studt of 72 Moore street, and his wife, Naomi, were struck by the automobile of Robert Iseman of 42 Janet street, and suffered injuries that required them to be removed to the Kingston Hospital for treatment.

According to reports Mr. Studt has a compound fracture of the left leg and Mrs. Studt several fractured ribs. Dr. Frank L. Eastman is their physician.

According to the police, Mr. Iseman said that he did not see the Studts in front of his car until the machine struck them. Traffic was congested at the Broadway and Thomas street point because a train had passed over the West Shore trestle and held up cars. The Studts were crossing Broadway from the Thomas street side, and Iseman was driving west on the main thoroughfare.

Iseman tried to bring his car to a stop, when he saw hitting the man and woman was inevitable, he said, but was unable to do so before striking them. Mrs. Studt was removed to the hospital by Parolman W. Enright and Harry Martin in one of the radio cars, and Mr. Studt was taken there by a passing motorist whose name could not be learned.

At noon today, the Studts were said to be fairly good and resting comfortably.

British Airmen Tell
Plan to Safeguard
London by Cables

London, March 5 (AP).—The British air force disclosed its plan today to defend London from air attack by a wall of steel cables in asking parliament for appropriations that would boost the total 1937 cost of Britain's war machine to £258,939,999 ($1,290,195,000).

The air ministry announced its expense estimates for the current year would reach $354,900,000, or almost double the amount asked for last year.

The Royal Air Force, Viscount Swinton, secretary of state for air, announced, would be increased to 70,000 officers and men with a first line strength of 1,750 aircraft organized in 124 squadrons.

Ten special units of an auxiliary air force would be created, he declared, to operate a balloon barrage for the defense of London from the air.

Huge fleets of balloons, he explained, would be sent into the air at the first alarm of a hostile raid to drop a network of cables that would cage in the city and ensnare any enemy plane that tried to dash through.

The air estimates disclosed by Lord Swinton pushed the cost of Britain's triple threat war machine beyond the billion dollar mark with its $254,900,000 addition to the $255,325,000 asked by the Navy and the $110,870,000 for the Army.

The Air Force personnel as planned for 1937, the minister said, means an increase of 20,000 men. By April 1, he proudly told the House of Commons, the Royal Air Force will number 100 squadrons stationed at home, 20 squadrons serving with the air arm of the fleet and 26 squadrons in the dominions beyond the seas.

The work of organizing the metropolitan air force, Lord Swinton said, was well advanced with orders for the balloons necessary to law the cage over London already placed and some deliveries received.

In connection with organizing a north Atlantic air service, announcement was made that experimental flights will be started this year by both land planes and flying boats.

Two flying boats equipped with special fuel tanks now are undergoing long distance training flights.

LOUISVILLE RESIDENT
WRITES OF FLOOD CONDITIONS

Louisville, Ky.
March 2, 1937

To The Editor,
Kingston Daily Freeman,
Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir:
I have just received two clippings from your paper in regard to our family being in the flood here in Louisville, Ky. I am taking this opportunity to thank you for inserting these pieces in your paper informing our friends and relatives of our safety.

The flood was a catastrophe as far as business and industry is concerned in Louisville. There was a great deal of damage done to the streets and sewers, also the electric and gas and telephone service.

Gas and electric have been restored about 75 per cent. The telephone service is about 90 per cent normal at present.

There was very little loss of life due to the flood.

The extent of the flood in Louisville had about 75 per cent of the city under water, ranging from an inch to about 50 feet along the river front. The average depth of the water in the streets was about five or six feet.

The street where we lived had about nine feet but we had only 20 inches in the house, due to the terrace formation on which most of the homes are built.

So the slogan in Louisville is: Keep smiling and keep faith and we will build a bigger and greater Louisville.

Yours truly,
E. J. BOUCHARD,
127 Gross Avenue,
Louisville, Ky.
